

California Marine Life Protection Act Initiative: Key Players and Information Flow

The California Fish and Game Commission is the decision-making body

California citizens: The public provides input to all these groups throughout the process